What Are The Odds?

In all the differences of opinion over the merits of the nuclear test ban treaty, one premise has gained wide acceptance: Ratification by the U.S. represents a gamble.

The gamble is that the Soviet Union will not repeat its treachery of 1961 when it broke a three-year test moratorium and that the U.S. will not slip further behind in development of an antimissile missile.

IN ANY GAMBLE, it's wise to check the odds carefully. And since odds represent probability based on experience, it becomes necessary in the case of the test ban to review U.S. experience. In 1945, when the U.S. exploded its first

A-bomb, it was clearly the sole nuclear power in the world. Four years later, Russia exploded its first A-bomb and the race was The U.S. then tested its first H-bomb in October 1952. But the race was growing tighter and 10 months later Russia exploded an H-bomb.

From then until the moratorium was signed in 1958 the gap closed rapidly. And then, after months of secret preparation, the Soviet Union broke the moratorium and piled up valuable nuclear information the U.S. did not and, even now, may not have.

FORMER President Eisenhower, while supporting the treaty with one reservation, sounded a warning in his letter to Sen. Fulbright that underscores the doubts many still harbor about the test ban:

". . . The results of that earlier moratorfum should not be forgotten. . . . Today, the Soviet status as a signatory to the treaty would, by itself, provide no proof that they would refrain from a similar future action; their record of violating any agreement, whether verbal or written, whenever it has served their purposes to do so, is so clear as to leave no doubt that Communist leaders still regard duplicity and deceit as laudable and justifiable tactics.'

The Senate has heard from some of the best minds in the nation during its deliberations on the treaty. It is bound to be criticized no matter what its decision. And either way, the decision will be a gamble.

We can ask only that the odds be figured and refigured with infinite care. Rarely have the stakes been so high.

Politics, Mississippi Style

You don't have to be for anything to win elections in Mississippi. In fact, it's better if you aren't.

In Mississippi, the candidate with the most sincere "hate Kennedy, hate the Negro" pitch gets the votes.

And so it was this week as Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson swamped former Gov. J. P. Coleman in a runoff Democratic primary, giving him a chance to succeed Gov. Ross Barnett, a champion in the hatred business. Coleman hates Kennedy, but Johnson hates him better. Coleman calls himself a modest segregationist. But next to Johnson, who wears with pride the federal contempt charges pending against him for trying to block admission of Negro James Meredith to "Ole Miss." Coleman looks like a strong civil rights advocate.

Nomination in a Democratic primary is tantamount to election in Mississippi. Still. the general election campaign should be interesting, even if predictable.

Johnson is opposed by Rubel Phillips, who is only as Republican as he has to be to get a place in the general election lineup. Phillips' campaign literature points out that he's "a staunch segregationist . . . the only candidate for governor who has no ties or obligations to the Kennedys or any part of the New Frontier.'

Even in overwhelmingly Democratic Mississippi, that kind of talk could help a Republican.

But Phillips will be helped even more if he can drum up a way to demonstrate his appetite for good old Southern fried hatred. the most popular political dish in Mississippi.

By Martin Miller

Dear Truman Twill: I am writing this from home and if it seems a little incoherent at times I just want you to know that the environment here for serious writing is not all that it could be This was brought to my attention by an article in the paper advising students how they should study

This article said if you had a history assignment, like say about the Guelphs and Ghibellines, you should give yourself every advantage so you could get the lesson without having any distractions.

For instance, no television, no rock 'n' roll records and no radio; have a 100-watt light coming over the shoulder; sit in a straight chair, and hold the book 14 inches from the eyes and at a 45-degree angle to the table.

WELL SIR, there is a television going in the living room with a cops-and-robbers bang-bang movie, a radio is mumbling in the kitchen, the dog is licking the hand I don't type with and I can't stand a straight

That is why I asked you to be lenient in judging this letter, which is being written in the dining room, midway between the kitchen radio and the living room television.

We just spent half an hour trying to find a 100-watt light bulb to shine from my back over my shoulder but the only bulbs we have are 60 watts. So subtracting 60 from 100 watts, you can see that this letter is 40 watts less brilliant than it should be, not couting all the other wrong things.

As for using a straight chair, we have favored a rocker ever since one of our famous leaders publicized its advantages. The point here is that if you can type while sitting in a rocker the problem of concentrating becomes completely insignificant. If you can handle the typewriter against these odds you can do anything.

Then this article in the paper said if you had anything weighing on your mind to get rid of it before starting your assignment. The article said one good way to get rid of these things on your mind was to write them down and forget them.

Well, Twill, I started to write down the things that were on my mind and bothering me but after filling two pages I gave up. If I had taken the time to write everything down I never would have gotten around to writing this. Of course, maybe you will say that would have been just as well, but you are too polite to say anything like that.

THEN the article said if you had a headache or were sleepy to take an aspirin or take a nap or both. I'm always readyy for a nap but like all the other advice in that article, if I had done everything right you never would have gotten this.

However, I did take an aspirin and that was a mistake because my stomach was empty and aspirin always makes me queasy on an empty stomach.

The blamed pill is beginning to have its effect now and I'm afraid it has done me in for the time being.

I guess I'll have to go take a nap now When you get time, drop me a line letting me know how you do all that heavy thinking in that newspaper office where you work, with the teletype printers clacking away, telephones ringing, and people yelling 'Stop the press," and "Hey copyboy, copyboy!"

By Victor Riesel

After "the march," what? The answer will come from the small groups of men who have been meeting and devising s trategy in New York City for months. Some of these strategists are preparing a call for a nationwide strike of several million Negroes - massive Victor Riesel demonstration of economic strength, or, if at all "practical," a full week's stoppage.

Others are preparing a series of daily miniature marches on Washington - right up the Hill to Congress itself.

Still others in the loosely formed high council are talking in terms of developing a coast - to - coast membership organization led by those who spent over a year coordinating the big march.

These people want one giant organization with its own headquarters, its own weekly newspaper, its own broadcast media - and especially its own plan for placement of hundreds of thousands of unskilled young Negro workers.

Championing the call for a national strike is husky Joseph Overton, national secretary of the Negro American Labor Council.

He was among the earliest of the handful who began planning the countrywide March on Washington originally scheduled for early in July, then rescheduled for the first week in October and finally set for Aug. 28th.

OVERTON IS closely allied with the AFL-CIO vice president, A. Philip Randolph, who is president of the Negro American Labor Council, a swiftly growing organization with thousands of members in 31 cities Overton's plans are to call on the 1.5 million Negroes who are members of AFL-CIO unions and another 250,000 or more who are in unaffiliated labor organizations.

With these workers as a base, Overton would call on hundreds of thousands of other Negroes in all branches of the federal, state, county and municipal employ, as well as those in the professions to leave their plants and offices on a set date for period ranging from one day to a full week.

GRIN AND BEAR IT

This would depend on the sup-

force would go out if the strike were successful and more if some unions supported the "plant level" AS FOR the miniature marches, they won't be quite so miniature, at that. Plans made as early as the first week in July, call for the spending of some $25,000 on a Washington lobbying headquarters supported by some of the mass mions. These would be the Auto Workers, led by Walter Reuther, the International Union of Electrical Workers, led by Jim Carey and the AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Department, led by both

From this central headquarters would go at least 1,000 men and women a day. They would be brought in from across the land. They would be organized into geographic groupings. They would then march to the Capitol.

Or if this were not practical, they would simply go directly to the House and Senate office buildings to buttonhole their congressmen and urge support of President Kennedy's rights bill.

This would be a costly operation, but at least one source re'for the duration.'

DRAMATIC as such activity will be, it does not guarantee the permanency of agitation, nor the discipline which the "march" leadership wants. They see a national organization - self perpetuating, self financed and with a central headquarters. They want a mass movement which can coordinate its drives.

They believe that most of these campaigns must rely on labor supplied the money for the hundreds of buses and special trains,

The "central organization" group is worried by the civil war between some of their units and sections of the labor movement. They see this spreading unless there is central direction.

publicity over picketing of construction sites. But it is not only a matter of opening up such unions as the building crafts -but of finding jobs for tens of thousands of younger unskilled Negro workers who are mighty militant.

They could coalesce into a bloc which would compete with the entire labor leadership. The march's high council wants no such split.

will not admit of this; and if mine would, we well know that those of the great mass of white people will not.

"Whether this feeling accords with justice and sound judgment is not the sole question, if, indeed it is any part of it. A universal feeling, whether well or ill-founded, cannot be safely disregarded. We cannot, then, make them equals."

IN ANOTHER speech in 1859, Lincoln said:

"I will say then that I am not, nor ever have been in favor of bringing about in any way the social and political equality of the white and black races - that I am not nor ever have been in favor of making voters or jurors of Negroes, nor of qualifying them to hold office, nor to intermarry with white people; and I will say in addition to this that there is a physical difference between the white and black races which I believe will forever forbid the two races living together on terms of social and political equality.

"And inasmuch as they cannot so live, while they do remain together there must be the position of superior and inferior, and I as much as any other man am in favor of having the superior position assigned to the white

"I will add to this that I have never seen to my knowledge a man, woman or child who was in favor of producing a perfect equality, social and political, between Negroes and white men."

The same year Lincoln bitterly criticized the Supreme Court for its decision in the Dred Scott Case upholding slavery as a property right. He said of the decision:

"We propose so resisting it as to have it reversed if we can, and a new judicial rule established upon this subject."

LINCOLN in another speech quoted with approval a letter from Thomas Jefferson, written in 1920, which declared that, if the judges of the Supreme Court are to be considered as 'the ultimate arbiters of all constitutional questions," this could be a "very dangerous doctrine indeed and one which would place us under the despotism of an oligarchy."

So, irrespective of the homage being paid to Abraham Lincoln this week for a particular purpose, there are plenty of quotations which, if uttered by anyone else today, would cause many whites and Negroes to denounce such a spokesman as a "racist" or "extremist. Yet the fact is that many people who want to see the Negro given every opportunity to advance in the economic field and enjoy the political privileges and benefits of life probably share the historic views of Abraham Lincoln.

One-Day Performance

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON The discipline and tranquility of Wednesday's civil rights demonstration will not be the permanent condition of the American Negro if he continues to be frustrated.

As they marched and stood in the sun for hours the massive quietude of perhaps 180,000 Negroes was amazing, when it is remembered how much in American life has been denied them. But this performance was for one day only

The warning of brief quietude, if white Americans continue to deprive Negroes of equal treatment, came from the one Negro who above all has preached nonviolent resistance, Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

"It would be fatal for the nation to overlook the urgency of the moment and to underestimate the determination of the Negro.'

All but one of the speakers in this gigantic petition for 'redress'

Negro is granted his citizenship rights. The whirlwinds of revolt will continue to shake the foundations of our nation until the bright day of justice emerges.' He could not have given a clearer warning of turmoil unless the wrongs are righted. Not all Ne-

John Poynter, 36, of 1814 Buck eye Ave., Wellsville, was listed in "satisfactory" condition with multiple lacerations and abrasions of the face and scalp, while Mike Campbell, 16, of Vanport was "fair" with internal injuries.

According to the Carnegie Barracks of the Pennsylvania State Police, Campbell attempted to pass a second car on a curve truck driven by Poynter. Both vehicles then rolled over an embankment.

Damage to the rig, owned by the Shaffer Truck Lines of Wellsville, was estimated at $9,000 and $1,600 to the Campbell auto.

An hour earlier, the patrol investigated a collision on Routes 30 and 22 in Fayette Township involving two Weirton autoists.

The car of James D. Bell, 42, was stopped on the roadway because of traffic ahead and was struck from the rear by the auto of George Rodak, 52.

Damage was estimated at $200 to each. Neither was hurt.

We wish to thank the Farmers and dealers for the nice run of stock we received. It was the largest run we have had in some time. 49 dairy cows were sold, beside our other cattle, hogs, lambs, and calves.

Feeder cattle were in good demand and the prices were good on everything. The auction was good all the way through. The place was full of buyers, with several from out of state buying beef and hogs. If you have any stock to sell we will be glad to handle them for you. Sell now before the fall rush starts. Your business is highly appreciated. We have a good truck service Call HA 45049. Cattle sale every Saturday at 1 P. M. Horse, pony, and equipment sale every Wed-

Did you hear about Central Services new roof top "Nothing over $295 Sale".

Yea! I hear they have taken car's that sell for as much as $700 - got my eye on that 1955 Chev. convertible with a floor shift and only $95.

My Daddy says, "I want that 1955 one owner Buick that was traded on a new Valiant."

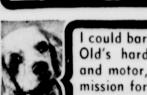

For that family that needs two cars, let me suggest a tu tone green 1955 Ford for $125.

I'm only a baby but even I know a bargain — East Liverpool Central Service has a 1957 Mercury

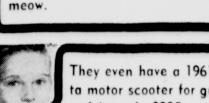

I'm a little more conservative so my choice is a 1954 Lincoln 2 door offered for $95.

Give me that 1956 Pontiac Star Chief and only $125.

could bark all day about a 1954 Old's hard top, excellent body and motor, but a dog of a transmission for $145.

A 1957 Plymouth newly painted white and only $295 — is the cats

They even have a 1961 Lambrat ta motor scooter for guys my size and its only $225.

The part I liked best is "Everyone is OK'ed for credit right on the Spot."

This nothing over $295 Dept. will only be open for the next 10 days so hurry down to 142 W. 7th and get your second car.

Junior Editors Quiz on-CHARCOAL

QUESTION: What is charcoal used for, besides grilling steaks?

ANSWER: Charcoal is an animal or vegetable substance which has been burned, but not completely so. If you blow a burning match out, the twisted, blackened end which remains is charcoal. Charcoal is a form of carbon and has many uses. It is extremely useful in cookery because it burns with a smokeless flame and throws out a great deal of heat - this is why it is used so often in open air cookouts. Since charcoal is porous, it is capable of absorbing odors and impurities from the air; it is also used for purifying water. Special kinds of charcoal such as lamp black and bone black are used in making paints. Charcoal is very familiar to all artists because they use it in stick form to sketch or lay out their pictures, as the artist is doing in our picture. If she wants to change a line, it can easily be done by dusting off the change land, and the content of the change ing off the charcoal with a clean cloth. Sometimes the artist paints directly with color over the charcoal lines, but frequently they blow a fixitive over the sketch which dries very quickly. Then the charcoal will not rub off or mix into the

FOR YOU TO DO: Burn a wooden match part of the way down and blow it out. Snap off the round tip, then try drawing with the remainder. You will find it makes a line thicker and softer than a pencil's.

Lynda Jorgenson of Santa Rosa, Calif., wins the daily grand prize of a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review and you too may win a set.
